

GRAND RAPIDS IS NOW IN MOURNING

Team From Wood County Seat Loses Two Straight To Belliel's Braves

Revenge is sweet. Rhinelander evened up matters for the only defeat this season, at Grand Rapids, by taking the down river boys into camp Saturday and Sunday by score 8 to 6 and 13 to 3. Oh, glory!

Saturday's game was won after a hard up hill fight which showed that Belliel has no quitters in his bunch. Some of the faithful fans nearly expired of heart failure, while several not being able to endure the strain departed, talking to themselves with Grand Rapids leading 6 to 1, in the seventh.

Grand Rapids by bunching hits in the second and a pass to Sinner, drove four runs across the plate before the side could be retired. Somerville circled the sacks on his long wallop to right but forgot the bases were made to touch, consequently his hit was wasted. Moyce scored in the fourth on a walk, going to second on Sinner's out, and counting on Foster's single, Brennan scored the final run, leading off in the fifth with a three sacker and going home on a wild pitch.

Did you see that eighth inning? Now—Poller started the fireworks with a single; Weckler followed with a two cushion drive to left, "Spike" halting at third; Clifford hit to second and Moyce played the ball home, but "Spike" was only fooling and hung to the third corner. Sinner threw to second to get Weckler and the pill rolled to the outfield, Poller scored; Weckler went to third, and counting on Post's sacrifice fly to left Jastram walked. Blackburne hit, scoring Clifford, and Kraemer walked, filling the bases. Here Johnny Sohr came to the front with a drive over short and when Christensen threw wild to Sinner all three runs came across and Sohr scored on Somerville's error. On Poller's bounder to third Weckler ended the agony by the whiff route, leaving the final count 8 to 6 in one of the most exciting finishes ever seen on the local diamond.

TO PHOTOGRAPH LAUNCHES

E. G. Squire Concoives A Clever Advertising Scheme

In order to advertise Rhinelander as a summer recreation spot to the people of the outside world, E. G. Squire believes that it would be an excellent plan to take group pictures of all the launches on the Wisconsin river, and send the views in postal card form throughout the country. Other boosters of the city agree with Mr. Squire that this would be a clever publicity stunt. It has therefore been arranged that all launch parties congregate near T. C. Wood's island at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon and the gathering will be photographed by Carl Krueger. If you own a launch don't fail to be present and bring your friends.

JUST READ THIS!

A Town Called Antigo Has A Jungle Base Ball Team

"Three Lakes enjoyed a real live ball game Saturday and Sunday: Antigo vs. Three Lakes. They were close games Antigo winning Saturday's game 9 to 5 and Three Lakes winning Sunday's game 5 to 7. The visitors were a fine lot of boys and we would like to see the tie played sometime during the season."

The above is taken from the last issue of the Three Lakes Advance. Where is this town called Antigo? The name sounds familiar, but just where we heard it we can't remember. Seems to us as we ponder long and earnestly on the subject that there is a village by that name that once supported a fairly good base ball nine. The burg evidently has a team this season, but it seems as though all its games are confined to the jungles. It is rumored in local circles that the aggregation is endeavoring to get a game Newbold Stump Landing. The manager of the Colts stoutly denies the report.

SPEND JULY 4TH IN RHINELANDER

Celebration This Year Will Be Biggest And Best, In City's History

Brilliant display posters advertising the big celebration in this city on July 4th have been prominently placed throughout Rhinelander and vicinity.

As the great holiday draws near the men of Co. L, who are arranging for the celebration are working hard and faithfully for the success of the undertaking. Many new and novel features never before seen in this city will be introduced on that day. One of these is the water fight between two divisions of city firemen. The men will play strong hoses on each other and the side which endures the terrific force of water the longest captures the prize. This part of the program is bound to keep the crowd in an uproar of laughter.

There will be races, sports and amusements of all kinds both on the main streets and at the fair grounds. One of the chief events will be a base ball game between the Milwaukee Hartmen's and Rhinelander.

The fire works display in the evening will be one of the grandest exhibitions of its kind ever given in northern Wisconsin. Some of the pieces are elaborate and entirely new this season and were obtained at considerable cost.

The program will be brought to a close with a military ball at the Armory.

It is expected that a vast crowd of strangers will be in Rhinelander on the 4th and the hotels and restaurants will be in a position to furnish all with proper accommodations.

LOSE AT MONICO

Cubs Are Defeated Through Unfairness Of The Umpire

Rank decisions by the umpire, according to Manager Steve Gwidt, was the cause of the Cubs losing to the Monico team at that village, Sunday. 13 to 11 was the score.

Steve says that his team was not given a square deal and that if it had the result would have been far different. The Cubs are putting up a good article of base ball and compare favorably with any amateur club in the state.

Next Sunday Minocqua will be taken on at that place.

Miss Mad's Rothwell and Miss Louise Smith are visiting Crandon friends.

THIS CITY MAY GET THE NORMAL

Bill Passes The Assembly Tuesday Morning by a Vote of 34 to 23

The Normal School site for Rhinelander is still in doubt although we are one step nearer the goal than we were a week ago. Tuesday morning, in a hard fought contest the final passage of the bill took place in the assembly by a vote of 34 to 23. Assemblymen Reader of Antigo and Hinz of Oconto did everything in their power to defeat the measure but their efforts failed and if these gentlemen succeed in getting the bill recalled we have confidence, it will pass by a larger majority than it did before but we fear there is a hard fight ahead. The senate thinks we are not in shape to build any more normals at present and that we should not tie up future legislatures but the members do concede our first claim to a normal school. If every man who knows a senator and is certain he can influence him will do his best we believe there is a splendid fighting chance in the senate. Every citizen of Rhinelander should do all in his power to help get the normal school. The slogan should be, Rhinelander needs a normal and is going to fight until she gets it.

ARE TENDERED RECEPTION

Frank Leonard And Lenn Markham Get A Surprise

Two recently married men, Frank Leonard, and Lenn Markham, were accorded a reception by the Big Four club, last Thursday evening, which will always linger fondly in their memories as a happy event of their matrimonial careers.

The doings were held in the K. of P. hall where the newly weds were escorted by a body guard after they had been captured against their wills. The evening's program continued until the early hours of the morning and was by no means in the nature of a pink tea. One of the star numbers, on the card was a boxing contest between Frank and Lenn and the manner in which the two worthies were forced to punch each other was really too bad. It is said that their wives failed to recognize them when they reached their homes. There was plenty of singing, dancing and instrumental selections and a general good time was had by all present.

EAGLES AT MARSHFIELD

Birds Flock There For The Big State Convention.

As special representatives of Rhinelander Aerie 339, A. Schauder, J. C. Teal and J. M. Baker left Wednesday morning to attend the state convention of Eagles at Marshfield.

For many weeks past the Eagles of Marshfield and citizens there have been busy preparing for this gathering which, according to all plans, will be the most successful in the history of Wisconsin Eagledom. All the lodges in the state will have delegates and birds from neighboring states will also be present.

With but very little effort the Rhinelander delegation could secure the next convention of the order for this city, but it is not deemed advisable to make the move at this time.

SHOP LIFTERS AT JACOBSON'S STORE

Unknown Thief Leaves Goods On Stairway—Other Losses Are Reported

Shop lifters are operating in Rhinelander. Saturday evening at an early hour a quantity of dry goods was found by Fritz Sterling on the stairway which leads to Dr. Richard's office over Goldberg's feed store. Mr. Sterling told Patrolman O'Malley of the find and upon investigation by that officer it was learned that the goods had been removed from Jacobson's store. The articles consisted of feminine wearing apparel, such as kimono, and underclothing, and represented a total value of nine dollars.

Mr. Jacobson says that the merchandise was positively stolen from his store, but how the thief managed to get away with the plunder is to him a mystery. The store was well filled with shoppers Saturday night and it seems strange that anyone could have left the place with such a bulky bundle without being detected. It is difficult to understand why the thief should drop the goods on the stairway.

Mr. Jacobson declares that occasional small thefts have occurred in his store of late and other merchants report similar losses. The police department and sheriff's office are making a careful investigation of the case which may lead to a sensational arrest.

FARM HANDS COMING

Marion Plays Rhinelander Next Saturday and Sunday

Saturday and Sunday the fast Marion base ball team will play two games with the Rhinelander team in this city. Marion is the only nine that defeated Rhinelander two games last season. It is stated that the farm boys are huskier than ever this year and are walking right over everything that comes their way. They may again turn the trick on the locals.

Saturday's game starts at 3:30 p. m. and Sunday's game at 3 p. m. Admission 25 and 10 cents. All fans are assured that they will be given their money's worth.

ONEIDA FARMERS ARE ALL HAPPY

Prospects Look Bright For The Best Crops In History Of County

Recent advices from the farmers, and personal observation also, show that Oneida county never had finer crops than at this moment. Oats all headed out, rye in some places higher than a man's head, red clover that is simply a carpet, without showing the ground at all, fine looking corn, potatoes, and other crops, all making the very best showing and we venture to say that nowhere in Wisconsin are there any crops as good as those of Oneida county.

The Agricultural Society have plans to take the best exhibits this year, and send them to the State Fair at Milwaukee. The County poor farm is planning to have a large display also, which will be sent to Milwaukee separately, to show what can be done by a county institution. It would be a mighty good thing if the county would have a couple of men in charge of the exhibit, with a few thousand folders and booklets, advertising the county and its resources. Other counties did this last year, and we would be lacking in common sense and the grasp of opportunity if we fail to do the same.

The best of the articles so exhibited at Milwaukee will also go on to the Chicago Land Show, which opens in November. This year the Wisconsin Advancement Ass. will have ample room to make a fine display, and we want the very best of this to be from Oneida. Last winter the space used by the association was very small, as they could not get anything better, but this year they have gone in early, and paid $1000.00 for the best space to be gotten.

It is a fact that the Western flow of homeseekers is becoming less and less. This year, records made at Marshfield, showing the number who went west and the number who came back give the fact that two more came back than went away. In the last week, even, men who left Rhinelander a few years ago, have returned here, looking for work, and saying that thousands are walking the streets in the Western cities, looking for something to do. There is no place like Wisconsin, and the best part of it is Oneida county.

It is a fact that more new settlers have come into our borders this year and bought land than for some years past, and we have it for certain that several large colonies, and many small ones, will arrive during July and on till late in the fall. We have room for thousands of them and when we consider that the great Roosevelt Dam in Arizona, that was six years building, and cost millions of dollars, will only irrigate 80,000 acres of land, while in our county there are 400,000 acres not under plow, we can see what these thousands of acres are going to be worth to us. If the Government can spend $35.00 per acre preparing to irrigate that land, can our settlers not afford to spend about half that amount in clearing up and farming here? All we need to do is to let people see what we have this year in the way of crops, also the rainfall, timber, lakes, pure water, etc., and we can convert them into coming here to live. We must advertise it in every way, be loyal to our home county, and lose no chance to say a good word for it, and in time this will bring us the people.

Most of the croakers have left, looking for the Golden West, and haven't money enough to get back on.

He remarked that they were Elks with the true spirit and a credit to the great order.

WITNESSES FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

S. G. Perinier Is At Milwaukee Races When Donnelly Breaks His Neck

S. G. Perinier of this City was at Milwaukee yesterday afternoon, and while attending the auto races at State Fair Park witnessed the distressing accident which resulted in the death of Walter Donnelly, one of the racers.

Mr. Perinier arrived at the track in the Milwaukee Herald press automobile just five minutes before the fatal mishap occurred. Donnelly was driving a Cino Car in the fifty mile race when the machine went crashing through the fence at the north end of the course on the forty-third lap. Donnelly's neck was broken and he died at a hospital shortly after.

The victim was 27 years of age and his wife and little child, were occupants of the grand stand at the time of the accident. For three years he had been racing cars and was considerably efficient.

Mr. Perinier states that the terrible scene was one which he will never forget, and hopes that he will never see the like again. Hereafter auto races will have no attraction for him.

There was little doing in Judge Walker's court this week and with the exception of one case the docket remained clear.

Later the fine and costs were suspended upon Stelle's promise to keep on the straight path. He was arrested by Pat Gleason, special railroad policeman for the Soo railway company in this city.

The case against Joe Imperio, Gus Imperio and Tony Martin, charged with felonious assault, was dismissed in municipal court Tuesday owing to the failure of the complaining witnesses to appear.

Ashland

Mystery surrounds the case of Wm. Gerses of Cleveland, the deck hand who is alleged to have killed Wheelman Chas. McMahon of the freighter A. C. Dinkley here last week, and who has been bound over without bonds to stand trial on the charge of murder at the September term of court. Although a common sailor, Senator Santora's law firm, the best in this city, has been engaged to defend him.

Crandon

An extra term of circuit court for Forest county which lasted less than one day was held here Tuesday. Judge Goodland presiding. Thirty criminal cases appeared on the calendar and all were continued with the exception of the Rowe and Chase cases. A suit for six cents damages has been filed in circuit court by W. K. Parkinson against A. E. Beebe. Iron River

An Ironwood cigar salesman, Chas. Sever, who is widely known on the Iron ranges, was arrested at Virginia, Minn., on the charge of white slavery. Seifer, it is alleged, furnished the fare for Margaret Raymond, a young woman across the international border at the Soo and to have delivered her to the proprietor of a house of prostitution. He admits having paid the girl's transportation but denies the latter allegation. Miss Raymond was found in the Pastime saloon and taken to Duluth by a U. S. Marshall as the chief witness against Sever.

Merrill

At the next meeting of the city council the business men will present a petition requesting that Main street be paved with creosote blocks. The present pavement, which was installed about six years ago, is in a poor condition. It is estimated that the expense of laying the creosote

FLASHES FROM THE HEADLIGHT

Bits of News Pertaining To The Soo and Northwestern Railroads

The St. Paul railway, it is understood, is thinking of building a line from Merrill into Antigo. The Soo line may also build into that city. The News Item says: "Now that the Soo line is seeking to establish a belt line across this section of the state in the Wisconsin & Northern, with Antigo as the logical division point, it is believed that the St. Paul is going to try and head off the entrance into Merrill."

Antigo people won't care whether the St. Paul or the Soo gives connection with Merrill and other points, as long as it is some line. The future work of the C. M. & St. Paul crew will be watched with interest.

The regular summer limited or "fish train" has again been put into service on the Monico-Watersmeet branch of the Northwestern road. The train leaves Monico early in the morning and returns at a late hour in the evening. It is a very convenient train for sportsmen and they are the chief patrons.

It is estimated that there were twenty-five tramps stealing a ride on a Soo line freight train, which pulled out of this city last Saturday afternoon. The wanderers occupied the bumpers, trucks and other dangerous positions on the train with apparently as much comfort as though they were seated in the luxurious cushions of a Pullman. Hoboes are unusually plentiful on the railroads this summer and the train crews find it difficult to keep them off the cars.

A tract of land aggregating 180 acres located at North Minneapolis was turned over to the Soo line Monday by E. G. Walton, a realty dealer of that city. The land is to be used as a freight terminal or wheat yard according to Soo officials. The property which cost the Soo $180,000 will be the center into which the Chicago division will operate over a cut off. Much freight tonnage, which is now handled by the Soo in its downtown yards at the twin cities, will hereafter be handled in the new yards north of the city.

The Northwestern and Omaha lines are equipping many of its trains with all steel coaches.

VS
F. E. WORDEN and H. A. WORDEN, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment of foreclosure and sale made in the above entitled action on the 30th day of April A. BRIGHT CROP PROSPECTS

Conditions Favorable For Splendid Yield In Wisconsin

Crop prospects in Wisconsin are gratifying, according to the monthly crop report of Secretary R. W. Rowlands of the state board of agriculture. In brief, the report shows that the northern, central and eastern parts of the state have had plenty of rain, while the southern portion has suffered from lack of moisture in the last two weeks, especially.

Acres are larger in almost everything except clover, which suffered from the open winter, but 75 per cent of the crop will be saved. Early planted corn has been effected by cut worms, especially in the north, but the rain has gone far toward driving away this pest.

The report summarizes the condition of the crops in the state by percentage as follows: Winter wheat, 82; spring wheat, 94; winter rye, 95; spring rye, 93; oats, 97; barley, 99; clover meadows, 73-78; timothy meadows, 83-84; alfalfa, 93, and pasture, 95-96.

The following called from the St. Paul Daily News concerns La Roy, the Indian base ball player who spent a large portion of last fall in Rhinelander. He has a big acquaintance among the fans here.

"Little Chief" La Roy, star twirler of the St. Paul base ball team, has "squared" himself with the court.

Saturday afternoon, after having placed himself in contempt several times, the Indian pitcher appeared before Judge William Louis Kelly, turned over $100 to Atty. J. C. Kreenman for Mrs. La Roy, promised to give $100 more next Tuesday, and $100 in 20 more days, and thus purged himself of contempt charges in connection with failure to pay alimony.

La Roy said he would have paid before, but that he only had a summer job, and that he had just started to make money.

We are glad to announce to the public that the Wisconsin republican members of the House of Representatives at Washington are voting for principal and not for party. The day of the old party machine is past. Wisconsin should be proud of her members in Congress, they defy the machine and vote for the interests of the people.

THIS IS REALLY GOOD

The New North and The Herald publishers have broken their agreement, with the Rhinelander News, an agreement made at the personal solicitation of their publishers, to sit up in union the proceedings and ordinances of the common council, and the News will hereafter be free from any combination or agreement with these papers which have so light an opinion of their word.

Hereafter The News will print the complete proceedings of the city council with its own type for 20 cents a folio or for the maximum price of $75.00 a year while our socialist neighbor and its democratic tag will continue to combine and each receive $75.00 a year for doing half the amount of work.

The News is not sorry to be freed from the handicap imposed by having to rely on type from our neighboring newspapers, preferring to do its own work and to print promptly as has been our invariable custom.

The purpose of the managers of the two other papers to put this paper in a hole is evident, but the effort fails. The News will carry out its contract to the letter at the price made and entered by the council.

The contract entered into with the city was not similar to the old county contract as there is a maximum limit which made it specially advantageous to the city, and gave large publicity to the acts of the common council.

The News saved the county one-fourth the price formerly paid to the newspapers for publishing the county board proceedings by refusing to continue the county combination, and another year, knowing now more fully the unreliability of contemporary competitors, The News will bid a price for setting up and publishing the proceedings which will be of financial benefit to the city.

Meanwhile, as started, The News will set up the complete proceedings for one-third the price allowed by law.—Rhinelander News.

WHY SO HOT, LITTLE MAN?

The hired man of the News is making faces and calling names over the back fence again because, forsooth the other city papers have seen fit to assist in breaking the "combine" which has been worrying that sheet for some time.

To the reading public the efforts of the News to become insurgent on anything are ludicrous. Born and nurtured for the conspicuous purpose of perpetuating the conditions that are arousing a country wide protest it now wants to pose as a savior to the people of Rhinelander and Oneida county. What rot! It isn't fighting for interests of the people for a minute. If it did its slanders of existence would quickly fall.

So far as the city printing is concerned the Herald has but one agreement to fulfill and that is to print the council proceedings for the sum of $75 which will be faithfully carried out.—Rhinelander Herald.

HAS ANOTHER NIGHTMARE

The local special interest organ had had dreams last week. We hardly know whether it comes from one of the fountain heads or is the product of little man Friday. It sounds like that tirade of misrepresentation before the county board on the subject of the newspapers as a trust and it also sounds like the second hand article on that same subject in the special interest organ of that week. Whatever the source of the article, it is false. There was no agreement on printing the council proceedings except the one with the city and that we shall faithfully carry out. So far as the special interest organ printing the entire city proceedings for twenty cents per folio, The New North prints the entire county proceedings for fifteen cents per folio and does it without whining at though it made no such bid. The special interest organ is up to its old tricks. It is trying to deceive the people again and that is exactly what it's real managers have been doing for years past, but the people are on. We have no fear.

AFFAIRS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

News Of Interest And Events Of Importance Down Washington Way.

The great society event of the season was the silver wedding celebration of the President and Mrs. Taft, held in the White House and the surrounding grounds recently.

There was an unusually large guest list, as not only were all those asked who are usually honored with cards to the four winter receptions, but there were a great many out-of-town persons bidden to the affair. Consequently it was hopeless to try to entertain them all in the White House, spacious though it is, and the grounds were opened to help accommodate the throng. Electric lights and colored lanterns made the grounds festive while from the open windows of the East Room floated the laughter and buzz of conversation, mingled with the music of the famous Marine Band.

There was an almost unexampled attendance. Diplomats, begemmed with orders and insignia; military men laden down with gold lace; ladies in Paris gowns and coruscating with jewels—all helped to make up a spectacle which can be seen nowhere else in the United States. The President and Mrs. Taft were almost overwhelmed with congratulations and good wishes.

In just a month from today the first ground will be broken for an exposition to be held in celebration of the completion and opening of the Panama Canal, and President Taft will press a button which will close an electric circuit in San Diego, Cal., and "break out" a great flag—the President's own flag, especially constructed of unusually large size for this particular event—right over the spot where the ceremonies are to last four days and will be of unique splendor. The President very cheerfully promised Director General D. C. Collier that he would do his, for he said he took an unusual interest in the San Diego Exposition because it will exploit the achievements of Uncle Sam in reclamation, irrigation, for station and conservation, and it also aims to bring together the Latin American republics and unite them in an illustration of what has been done in the development of the new world. While not outlined on such a large scale as the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held coincidentally in San Francisco, the San Diego Exposition, with $2,500,000 already available has a definite plan and idea, and promises to be an artistic, financial and industrial triumph.

Washington being essentially a Southern city—as one would quickly judge from its big negro population, numbering one-third of the total population—it is very fitting that it should see annual ceremonies over the decoration of the graves of Confederate dead in the National Cemetery at Arlington. The floral tributes this year, on June 11, were impressive, and there was a large attendance. Music was by a United States cavalry band, and Senator Taylor, of Tennessee, made the principal address.

FLED FROM BOREDOM.

The Tale of a Purposely Interrupted Yachting Cruise.

A few seasons back a well known hostess chartered a splendid yacht for August and invited a large number of her friends for a three weeks' cruise. At first all went well, though the party was not specially well assorted, but after a few days they began to evince signs of being somewhat bored with each other's company.

The hostess marked these signs of incipient boredom, which became more plainly evident each day, and at last in despair she took counsel with one of her guests, an old and experienced yachtsman.

"What on earth shall I do to amuse these people?" she asked.

The yachtsman looked at the serene sky and calm, blue water and shook his head doubtfully.

"A storm would enliven them up a bit," he said, "but the weather looks quite settled. There is only one thing to be done. You must arrange a breakdown; the engineer will manage that all right for you. He has probably often done so before. Then you must make for the nearest port for repairs and let your guests have a run ashore. Some of them, I expect, will find an excuse for bidding you goodbye and those who remain with you will get along all right together."

The hostess took her guest's advice and arrived at Toulon a day later, where high twenty of her guests bid her goodbye.—London M. A. P.

THE PRINCE WINKED.

And Miss Alcott Was at the Other End of the Filtration.

It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstance on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII. The fact comes out in Mrs. Belle Morse's book, "Louisa May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker." There is a passage in the book which contains Miss Alcott's personal account of the incident. It refers to the time when the late king, then Prince of Wales, made his famous visit to this country. "I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, "and I saw the Prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at review—a yellow haired laddie, very like his mother, Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed and he openly winked his boyish eye at us, for Fanny with her yellow curls and wild waving looked rather rowdy, and the poor little prince wanted some fun. We laughed and thought that we had been more distinguished by the saucy wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes."

By the way, this incident occurred

In 1860, when the Prince of Wales was nineteen years old and consequently quite a brook of a boy, and when Miss Alcott—we blush to record it—was twenty-eight.—New York Mail.

The Gold Dust Was There.

North America has counted as a gold producing continent only since the late forties. But it might well have done so for about 200 years. According to the London Chronicle, in the voyage round the world which began in 1719 the privateer Captain Shelvocke found in certain California valleys "a rich black mold which, as you turn it fresh up to the sun, appears as if intermingled with gold dust. Though we were a little prejudiced," he adds, "against the thought that it could be possible that this metal should be so promiscuously and universally mingled with common earth, yet we endeavored to cleanse and wash the earth from some of it, and the more we did the more it appeared like gold. In order to be further satisfied I brought away some of it, which we lost in our confusion in China."

Ats Himself Thin.

A terribly emaciated man, about thirty-five years of age, was eating four meals a day, including a heavy breakfast. He was also taking milk between meals. I induced him to give up the milk between meals and to take only a cup of weak tea for breakfast. At once his weight began to increase. It is now normal. Obviously it was a case not only of ordinary mental worry, but also of worry and overwork of the millions of cell lives within him. He gave the cells and organs a rest and at once there was a storage of energy and weight.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Linked Before and After.

Having entered the church at Regensburg, in Germany, for the purpose of being married and taken his place beside the bride, a man named Wahl, who seems to have been of a somewhat nervous disposition, suddenly rushed out of the building, took a cab to the station and jumped into a moving train. We have always maintained that the bridegroom should be handcuffed to the best man until the conclusion of the ceremony. It is foolish to take unnecessary risks.—London Globe.

Happiness.

"There is an instinct in the heart of man which makes him fear a cloudless happiness. It seems to him that he owes to misfortune a title of his life, and that which he does not pay bears interest, is amassed and largely swells a debt which sooner or later he must acquit."

RURAL MARINE MAIL ROUTE
A rural marine mail route has been established on the Three Lakes chain of lakes. The mail is delivered by Al He Beach in a fast gasoline launch. The new service is put on for the benefit of summer resorters and people who occupy cottages along the route. Mr. Beach leaves the Three Lakes postoffice daily at 8:30 a. m.

So Says F. S. Eaton, Calumet Mich.,
Auto Owner

An American Roadster racing car owned by F. S. Eaton, of Calumet, Mich., and occupied by him and his chauffeur, J. Alschbach, arrived in the city Monday evening and departed Chicago and Detroit. The car left the next forenoon on its way to Calumet Sunday morning and upon its arrival here had traveled 170 miles. Mr. Eaton, who is chief clerk of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company, said that the roads between Calumet and this city were very rough and delayed the progress of the car to an annoying extent. He believed that if the highways were improved that this section would become a popular touring place for motorists.

WARNING TO SPOONERS

They Must Keep Away From High School Grounds.

Spooning on the grounds and in the entrances of the high school building are positively prohibited. In an order issued by Chief of Police Straub Sunday night. The chief says that the building and lawn had become a popular retreat for cooling lads and lassies and that their presence was annoying to the janitor who found it difficult to keep the premises in order. Sunday night, Patrolman O'Brien, wearing his "sneak shoes", and swinging the "big stick", made a cautious circuit thru the grounds with the result that many "foxy doves" were rudely awakened from their blissful reveries.

CIRCUS MAN HERE

F. W. Ambrose, one of the New York representatives of Ringling Bros. World's Greatest Shows, was in the city Wednesday, having stopped off here on his way to the Mercer lakes for an extended outing. Ill health has forced Mr. Ambrose to give up his duties with the circus for the remainder of the season. When asked if any of the Ringling shows would come to Rhinelanders this summer Mr. Ambrose replied that he thought not. Owing to the dull times on the iron ranges, he said that the big shows are avoiding this section of the country as much as possible.

WISCONSIN'S HIGHEST POINT

The highest point in Wisconsin, according to the United States geological survey is in Langlade county a few miles north of the Marathon county boundary line. The bulletin on the survey reads as follows: "The highest point in Wisconsin thus far determined by spirit leveling is in the vicinity of Morley, in the Wausau quadrangle, and is described as follows: T. 31 N. R. 9 E., northeast corner of Sec. 1, 12 feet west of center road, 50 feet south of bearing tree; iron post, 1,528.703 feet.

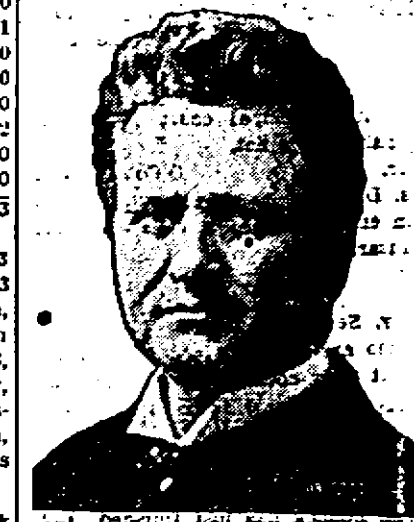

POPULAR NEW BEVERAGE

Arthur Taylor, of the Rhinelanders Bottling Works, has just put a new soft drink on the market which promises to become popular. It is called orange soda and touches the right spot.

Barney Arnold and Louis Crusoe are spending the week at Lake George.

Team From Wood County Seat Loses Two Straight To Bellie's Braves

late of Eau Claire, of the Minny league, was on the bill for Grand Rapids and the way Bellie's warriors tortured him was really a shame. Poller led off with a single and Weckler, after two attempts to sacrifice, passed one over Brennan's dome for three pillows. Clifford's hit scored Weck; Post's single sent him to second and Jastrum shoved them along one station with his sacrifice, the pair scoring when Nelson picked Kraemer's boulder. Pep scored on Sohr's single, making the count five and enough to win.

Hutchinson pitched great ball after the second when Grand Rapids scored two runs. He then tightened up and would have kept them from the third run but for an error.

Gregory suffered a split finger on his heaving hand and was forced to retire in favor of Foster. This gentleman failed to stop the local's bombardment until the decisive result was 13 to 3. They say 13 is an unlucky number. Oh, piffle! Of course, it doesn't look very rosey to the Wood county fans, but Rhinelanders feel well satisfied. Thank you. Following is the way it all happened according to the score sheet.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Babcock took an auto trip into northern Wisconsin last week, the former looking after the interests of the Wisconsin Valley Improvement Ass. At Eagle River they found Judge and Mrs. A. H. Reid, and with them took a boat ride around the Eagle lakes. They took Judge and Mrs. Reid in their auto, and ran from Eagle River to Hazelhurst, where Mr. Reid has a cottage. They returned home on Friday evening.—Wausau Pilot.

aroused from its peaceful slumbers and made a slight effort to do a little have rain soon fall crops will not be as good as expected.

good one, one half mile east of the old
Preibe school house.

DEATH OF SAM CREGO

End Comes Saturday After Illness of One Week

Saturday forenoon death came to Sam Crego at his home at Shepard's Park. He had been ill only one week with spinal meningitis and the end was a sad shock to his family and many friends, throughout the city.

Mr. Crego was twenty-seven years of age and had made Rhinelander his home for seven years coming here from Omro. He was a young man whose always genial nature won for him many friends and his sudden passing away is deeply mourned.

He is survived by a wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Crego of Omro; and four sisters, namely, Miss Verna Crego, Omro; Mrs. Harry Johnston, Antigo; Miss Myra Crego, and Mrs. C. E. Kesteren, Regina, Sask. All were present at the funeral except Mrs. Kesteren.

The funeral was conducted Tuesday afternoon from the Congregational Church, Rev. Grant Clark officiating. Comrades of Co. L of which deceased was a popular member, acted as pall bearers, and a firing squad from the company, carried out the last impressive military honors at Forest Home Cemetery where the remains were laid at rest.

To the sorrowing widow and other relatives of Mr. Crego the sympathy of all is given.

PLEASANT BOAT TRIP

J. J. Reardon and son, Ronald, Ed Boyce and "Beaver" Crosby returned Tuesday afternoon from a delightful boat trip down the Tomahawk river from Minocqua to Bradley. The trip occupied five days and covered a distance of 175 miles. John declares that he never went through a prettier piece of wood land in his life. The mosquitoes were as big as air ships but a liberal use of Reardon's skeeto dope saved the party from being devoured alive.

CARD OF THANKS

To the many kind friends and members of Co. L who assisted us during the illness and at the death of our beloved husband and son, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks.

Mrs. Sam Crego, Mr. and Mrs. A. Crego.

A practical, untechnical book of hygienic advice is E. M. Holt's Daily Ways to Health. It gives thirty-five special health exercises, without apparatus, intended to benefit directly special conditions, physical and mental. It emphasizes the value of using odd moments for right breathing and other exercises. The methods given are simple for keeping the body at its highest efficiency.

A few of the chapters are: Remember to keep well; The habit of health; Daily acts—breathing, relaxation; Two health foes—corpulency, insomnia; Kinds and significance of exercise; The will to be well; One's best physician.

Seton-Nimrod's Wife. This is an account of the author's life in the open while accompanying her husband Ernest Thompson Seton on his trips. It is a bright, unconventional narrative, written in a spirited manner, prevaried by enthusiasm for outdoor life, a love of adventure and a cheerful, wholesome philosophy.

Holt—Care and Feeding of Children: a catechism for mothers, and children's nurses.

This is a standard work of high authority and value. By some it is considered the best book of its kind.

Fenneman—Lakes of Southeastern Wisconsin.

ALTAR BOYS WIN

Planning the House.

"Well," said Gifford Berrington, cheerfully, "I've got the plans for my new house on the lake shore all finished."

"Finished to suit you?"

"No-no. But the architect is satisfied, and that's the best I can expect."

"Ha, ha! How about Mrs. Berrington?"

"It's all right with her, too. In fact, she got that fixed before we started. You see, she laid out the cupboards and wardrobes, and all the architect had to do was to build a house around them."

His Night Off

And What It Accomplished For Him

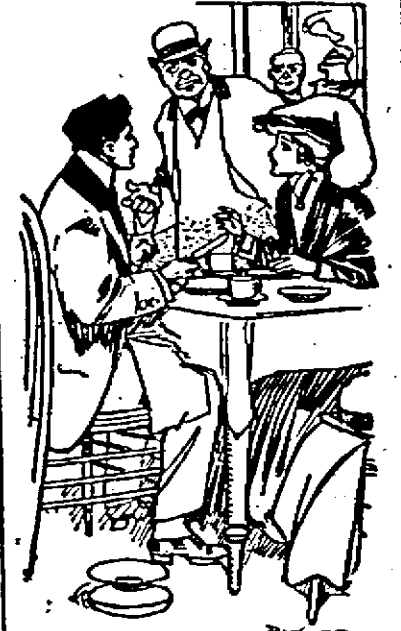

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Dunbar stepped out of the tall Park row building with a pleasant sense of freedom. He had turned in his last page of copy for the Sunday edition, and he had twenty hours of rest and relaxation ahead of him. To Sam Dunbar, the most indefatigable worker on the Daily Universe, relaxation meant seeking his pleasure among haunts that must furnish copy. In his youthful enthusiasm his life had thus far consisted of work, sleep and work.

On this Saturday night Sam was inspired to seek the garish lights of the Bowery. In some restaurant there he might find the type of young man he was looking for—the weaker brother who had lost hope and self respect and who was burdened with a multitude of vices, yet in whom there might be some slumbering spark that could be fanned to a flame of renewed interest in life, ambition and, in the end, reputable citizenship. If he could prove that this might be done with some of the degenerate sons of the city, perhaps a measure of the gold that was steadily poured toward the enlightenment of the heathen of other lands might be diverted to that greatest of all charities at home.

Now he strolled along the Bowery, mingling with the crowds that thronged the sidewalks, looking here and there for a cheap eating house wherein he might find what he was looking for. Sam Dunbar was hanging up his hat in a chop house preparatory to taking a seat at one of the polished cherry tables when the vacant eyed youth whom he had picked out for his prey suddenly arose from his seat and approached the cashier's desk. Sam looked around at the other patrons of the place. Two fashionably dressed men sat in a distant corner. Here and there a man was eating a solitary meal, and directly opposite him a girl was bent over the greasy bill of fare.

There was something in the droop of her shoulders that appealed to him. They looked like shoulders that were accustomed to carrying themselves proudly, but now they hunched together, and the enormous beaver hat was so flopped down about the girl's face that he could see nothing save a round white chin and a pair of red lips that undoubtedly trembled.

Regardless of the waiter's disdainful glance and the insulting laugh of a man in a striped suit of clothes, Sam reclaimed his hat and moved across to the table occupied by the girl. She did not lift her head at his approach. She merely bowed it lower over the framed cardboard until the broken feather on her hat nearly swept the table.

The broken feather decided the matter for Sam Dunbar. If there was no degenerate young man to be reclaimed that night, here was material to his hand, or, as he told himself, for his paper.

The waiter shoved a card under Sam's nose and thumped a glass of water on the table.

"A porterhouse steak and coffee," was his decision.

"And yours?" The waiter snapped the question at the girl.

"A sandwich and a cup of tea," came from under the beaver hat in a very small voice.

The waiter departed and returned almost immediately with the tea and sandwich.

The girl slowly lifted her head and made a pretense at eating the food. Sam, apparently absorbed in a newspaper, noted that she ate daintily and that her hands were pretty and well kept. Her face was charmingly sweet and refined.

Where had she come from? What was she doing here on the Bowery? Sam asked himself these questions as he discussed his meal. He wished there was something that he could do. He felt that she needed protection. Here was the timidity of innocence. There was no guile in the frightened blue eyes that evaded his.

An opportunity came. The door swung open, and a man entered, a swaggering, half drunken individual, who made slow progress up the room, supporting himself by a dirty hand laid on the tables. When he reached the table where the young reporter and the girl sat the man paused and stared foolishly at the girl.

"Say, Mabel," he began, with a threatening glance toward Sam, "if youse wants me to throw him out I will. What say?"

The girl uttered a little cry and flashed an appealing glance toward Sam. "Oh, take him away!" she cried nervously.

Just then the waiter blustered up, and with little ceremony ejected the newcomer from the place.

The girl was rising from her seat and fumbling in a small bag that hung from her waist. Sam pushed aside his own unfinished meal.

"If you're afraid of that fellow, Miss Mabel," he was beginning when the girl put out a protesting hand.

"Oh, you are mistaken," she said, with a broken little laugh. "My name isn't Mabel, and I never saw him before in my life. He was merely offensive, that's all."

Suddenly he arose and reached for his hat. "This is a pretty tough section," he said quietly. "I wonder if you'd let me put you on a car for home?"

The girl hesitated and looked at him. Their eyes met in a long, earnest, absorbing glance. At last the girl uttered a little sigh of relief.

"If you will be so very kind," she said gently.

The waiter grinned sardonically as they paid their checks and passed out of the restaurant together.

"Which way?" inquired Sam as they paused on the sidewalk.

"Way uptown—Ninety-second street," returned the girl. "If you will put me on a car?"

"I'll see to that," said Sam. "There's an elevated station two blocks down. I will be glad to see you all the way home if you will permit me," he suggested.

"You are very kind, but perhaps I am taking you out of your way," said the girl.

"Not at all. This is my night off."

They walked slowly down the brilliantly lighted thoroughfare, the girl's face quite hidden by the enormous beaver hat. Sam Dunbar walked very straight, his broad shoulders thrown back as if braced to meet some expected trouble, his handsome brows knitted in perplexity.

Not a word was spoken until they were in the train rumbling northward.

"I would like to ask you what you're doing so far from home," hesitated Sam at last. "That's a pretty tough part of the city, you know."

"I do know it," she said quickly. "That is why I went there."

"Because it is tough?" he repeated incredulously.

She nodded her head, and the broken feather wagged in unison. "I don't believe you would like to hear why I went there."

He looked uncomfortable. "Well, I would like to hear," he said bluntly. "You're too young to be wandering around the city like this."

"I'm not as young as I look," she protested. "I hope you will understand me. I suppose you live down there yourself, but I had a mission down there." She blurted it out as if relieved of a burden of secrecy.

"A mission! Then you are a settlement worker?"

"No. You see, I am a woman reporter for the Daily Sphere. I have come in contact with some of the unfortunate girls of the city, and I thought that in my spare moments I might get down among them and perhaps be the means of leading a few of them back into a better life."

She blushed rosily under the disreputable hat.

He sighed with relief at her confession. "But that was a mighty dangerous thing for you to do," he advised her. "You might get into serious trouble yourself. Tonight was your first attempt?"

"Yes, and I was so frightened. I picked out that chophouse, and I felt so perfectly awful with this wicked feather in my hat." She reached up and plucked out the offending feather. "I suppose I've made a failure of the whole thing just when I thought I was going to accomplish such a noble work. There is a man on the Universe who reaches young men in this way, and his example inspired me to do likewise. His name is Dunbar."

"Perhaps we can work together," said Sam quietly, fishing a card from his pocket and handing it to her.

She uttered a little cry of delight. "How very strange!" she was beginning, when a sudden thought brought the roses to her cheek once more. "You thought—you thought you were going to save me?" she asked quickly.

It was Sam's turn to blush. "I might have known you were different," he said apologetically.

She waved the feather thoughtfully. "Not while I wore that, Mr. Dunbar. I believe we are coming to my station."

Sam accompanied her to her home in a most irreproachable neighborhood. In the months that followed it was his good fortune to instruct her in other matters outside of the sphere of philanthropy.

In the end they formed a matrimonial partnership and worked together for the reclamation of unfortunates. Once a week they entered the restaurant where they had first met and dined under the contemptuous glance of the waiter.

"I don't know if I ever told you, Sam, but I believed you to be a reprobate when you sat down by me that first night, and I was so afraid of you."

"You've got over it bravely enough," replied her husband, trying to look benevolent and dismally failing in his attempt.
